SITE FOR OHIO STATE OFFICE BUILDING

LOCATION MAY BE ON GROUNDS, BROAD OR THIRD.

Governor May Sell Wyandotte and Hartman Buildings—Taxation Program is Almost Completed—Measures Will Probably be Re-enacted by the Assembly.

A concrete program for a new state office building has been submitted to the general assembly at the recommendation of the state building committees of both houses. The bill is an emergency.

It would provide for the immediate appointment of a commission of five by Lieutenant Governor Charles Lewis with consent of the senate to replace the present commission of the governor, attorney general and state auditor which has not functioned.

The commission would first consider a site on Third street between Broad and State streets on or off the state-house grounds. If no such site is available, the commission may go elsewhere convenient to the present Capitol.

In any case, the commission would be directed to condemn property if an attempt is made to seek a nonreasonable price. The industrial commission under the bill, is directed to advance $4,000,000 for the commission's use from the Workmen's Compensation fund. The state would repay this at $25,000 a year in rental.

If this loan is unconstitutional $4,000,000 would be appropriated from the general reserve fund. In either case, the governor may sell the Wyandotte and Hartman buildings and the proceeds would go toward the new building.

The commission would also reconstruct the quarters of the state library into committee rooms. The library with all other offices outside the Capitol would go to the new building. Tunnels would connect the State House. The basement of the Capitol would be made into filing rooms and the heating plant of the old and new buildings would be at the penitentiary.

The senate late Tuesday concurred with the house in passing the larger part of the Republican taxation program.

Three bills were approved with only the two Democrats opposing them. They are:

1.—The Tallentire bill providing home rule in taxation limitation in charter cities.

2.—Dodd bill providing taxing districts may authorize extra levies for operating expenses by a majority of those voting on the issue.

3.—Kreuger bill providing bond issues may be submitted only at regular elections and that the voters at the same time shall pass on the question of whether the interest and sinking fund charges for such bonds shall be placed outside all limitations.

The governor expects to veto most of the program but the Republicans will reenact them.

BIG SURPLUS TO WORK TAX REDUCTION.

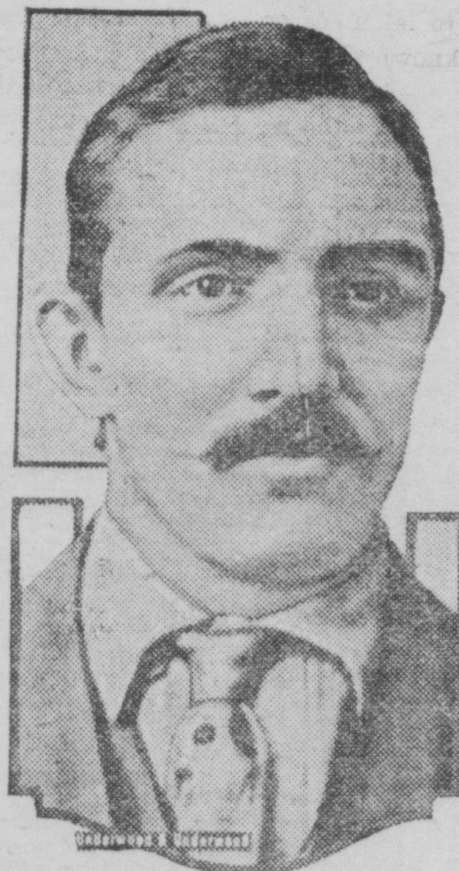

A cut in taxes equal to last year's slice may be expected this fall, high Treasury department officials believe.

With the adding machine tabulating totals of the income receipts of March 15, treasury officials have determined that about $374,000,000 will be available as a surplus for the planned new reduction.

This figure compares with $323,000,000 which was saved up for the most recent cut and gives the treasury experts confidence to announce that the contemplated decrease will at least reach the proportions of the old cut.

Just which classes of taxpayer will receive the greatest benefit has not yet been decided.

D. S. LUDWIG - THE EAGLES PROMINENT CITIZEN

Called to His Reward This Morning, was a Member of a Fine Old Family.

David Shelby Ludwig died at his home in the Pickaway Plains, south of this city at 3:10 o'clock Wednesday morning following an illness of three months. His death was due to influenza and senile decay.

The deceased was a son of Jacob and Evaline Morris Ludwig and was born June 16, 1842, on the same farm on which he passed away.

On December 26, 1872, he married Miss Rosalie, daughter of Isaac and Lydia Hitler Dresbach. The latter died several years ago.

Five daughters survive. They are: Mrs. Eva Dresbach, of this city; Mrs. Fannie Linke and Mrs. Lydia Groff, of Columbus; Mrs. Mary Jackson, who resides at home and Mrs. Mabel Shipman, of Cleveland.

The funeral services will be held at his late home Friday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. G. J. Troutman and Rev. Floyd E. Logee will officiate. Interment will be in the Hitler-Ludwig cemetery.

The pallbearers will be James Dresbach, Dr. Harry D. Jackson, Henry T. Linke, Albert M. Groff, E. Warren Shipman, Charles D. Ludwig, John Ludwig and George Steele.

The deceased had served as a school director and township trustee. He was a most exemplary citizen, a lovable father and was a worthy representative of a fine old family.

THOMAS STRAWSER

Expects To Be Able To Resume His Duties At Fire Department Next Week.

Thos. A. Strawser, injured in a fall while trimming a tree several weeks since, expects to be able to resume his duties at the city fire department next week.

Injured outside his line of duty Strawser could not receive pay from the city but his friends came to his assistance through a subscription paper kindly circulated by Edward Cupp.

Explaining It

Perhaps it's called a common cold because it's common to all sorts and conditions of men.

THE EAGLES TAKE TO THE TALL TIMBER.

C. A. C. Wins Championship Tuesday Evening by the Score of 25 to 13.

In a fast and furious game the C. A. C. boys take the annual basketball classic of Circleville by defeating the Eagles 25 to 13 and even the score is a little one sided it was a game that kept the fans on their feet every minute of play.

The first half was rather slow compared to the last frame and ended with the Eagles on the long end of a 10 to 9 score. However in the second half the C. A. C. boys cut loose keeping their opponents on the jump every minute forcing them to play a defensive game continually, in fact, due to the strong come-back of the club team the Eagles were able to secure but three points in the second half while the club boys were registering sixteen.

With each game it becomes more difficult to pick out any one man on the club team as having starred. Each man playing his position almost perfectly, so in justice to all we can only say that they all played a bang-up game. As for the Eagles, to Merriam goes the decision, he not only used his head in offensive but also played a wonderful defensive game when it was required.

Thursday night will see the close of the C. A. C. season when the club boys meet the Jackson Bankers. Fans should avail themselves of this last opportunity to see this bunch of basket shooting boys in action against a very strong team, one which they defeated in an overtime game at Jackson.

The score:—

SCHOOL BOY IS KILLED ON ROADWAY

Student at Pickaway Township Centralized School Killed Monday.

Bernard Barnes, the seven year old son of Mrs. Shannon Graves of near Elmwood, was run down by a passing automobile on the Kingston pike Monday evening and was so badly hurt that he died from his injuries shortly after the accident.

The boy was riding home in a school truck driven by Al Dresbach. Near a narrow part of the road the driver stopped his truck to let a car coming north pass, and unknown to the driver, the little fellow hopped off the truck and started to run across the road to his home, which was not far away.

A Ford coupe driven by Guy Minser of Hallsville, happened along just as the boy alighted and caught him as he started to cross the road. He was knocked down and the machine ran over him.

The boy's right leg was broken, his skull fractured and he was hurt internally. The lad was picked up and taken to his home where Dr. Lightner of Kingston was called. He failed to recover consciousness and soon passed away.

The child's mother, Mrs. Shannon Graves, gave birth to triplets, all boys just ten days since.

The funeral services were held at the home of his mother this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Adelphi.

TRAP SHOOT TOURNAMENT AT TARLTON

Attractive Program of Six Events of 100 Targets--Dinner

W. I. SPANGLER HIGH.

Foxes Defeated Groundhogs by the Score of 405 to 385.

The first annual spring tournament at clay targets given for the benefit of the Tarlton Community club, was held Saturday, March 21, on the southern outskirts of the little village.

The shooting grounds were in the level field of E. S. Ballard and two of the Spangler Automatic Target Traps were used.

More than one hundred individual shooters participated.

An attractive program was arranged for six events consisting of one hundred targets and an annual event known as the dinner event consisting of twenty-five targets.

So many shooters entered in the regular target event that the entire program could not be finished.

The supper shoot was entered by sixty-two shooters divided into two teams and named Groundhogs and Foxes.

The Foxes defeated the Groundhogs by a score of four hundred and five to three hundred and eighty-five and enjoyed the supper at their expense.

Perhaps this was their revenge for the Groundhogs appearance on February 2, and giving us six more weeks of winter weather.

Among some of the noted out of town shooters was the well known professional shooter, John R. Taylor, of Newark, Ohio, who represents the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., William Webster, M. M. Foote, J. H. Kirby of Columbus, Ohio; J. C. Rader, E. M. continued on page five

BRAIN FEVER RESULTS IN CHILD'S DEATH.

Mildred Bernice Birchwell, infant daughter of Sanford and Nola Hall Birchwell, died at the home of her parents in Walnut township Wednesday morning at 5:30 o'clock.

The child had been ill one week of brain fever. She was born at Cedar Hill, Amanda township November 18, 1924. Besides her parents eight children survive.

The funeral services will be held Thursday at the home of her parents at 3:30 o'clock. Rev. O. L. Ferguson will officiate. Interment will be in Forest cemetery.

Bound Over.

Wayne Ebert and Gable N. Lytle who were placed under arrest at Commercial Point last Monday evening by Sheriff Robert Young and Deputy Howard Irwin, had a hearing before Justice Friece Tuesday afternoon on the charge of stealing auto accessories. They were bound over to the grand jury and their bail was fixed at $500. The prisoners are charged with stealing auto accessories from the autos of Fred Lamb and Elijah McKinley, of Commercial Point.

Uncomplimentary Wit

Like the Scotch, the English can relish a joke on their native peculiarities. A recent book of British reminiscences includes this little-known story of the old duchesse de Duras and Montrond, the French wit. The duchesse asked the famous wit, "In your opinion, what animal the most closely resembles man?" Montrond reflected for a minute and then replied, gravely, "L'Anglais, duchess."

Interpreting

A poet, in fact, like any other artist, must not simply transcribe nature. He must interpret her; and as she is too vast to be interpreted under all her aspects, he must select. Whether this selection is conscious or unconscious, it must be prompted not merely by his physical environment, but also by his intellectual attitude toward external nature.—E. E. Sikes.

Home of Half-Million Gulls

Ravenglass, on the coast of Cumberland, England, is one of the greatest haunts of seagulls (commonly called gulleries) on the British coast. Their breeding season ended with the last days of June. These beautiful birds are of the black-headed variety, and the chief game warden estimates that there are over 500,000 birds, which is regarded as a most conservative estimate. The gallery is situated on the Muncaster Castle estate.

Deserves a Trial

The receiver used by Mr. Pierce is located in an exceptionally bad spot, close to a large electric powerhouse. He employs an aerial consisting of two wires, each 50 feet long, running north and south, with the lead in from the northern end.—From a radio story in the New York Evening Journal.

One of Nature's Wonders

The point of a needle is exceedingly sharp, but contrasted with the stinger of a bee it is not sharp at all. Highly magnified, the point of a needle appears as ragged as the broken stem of a telegraph pole. Under similar magnification the stinger of a bee is infinitely sharp; it approximates the billionth of an inch.

This smart spring coat is of novelty woolen material in beige, piped with dark brown silk. It has Norfolk plaits to the waistline and is fastened with three broad belts, held by buckles like the loops that confine the cuffs.

Matrons Are Favored by Modes of Present

It is no longer smart to be merely youthful, says the Montreal Family Herald and Star.

That fashions have favored youth only has been the complaint made for several seasons by those for whom first youth at least has passed. So universal has been the youthful style adopted regardless of years that surprise has not been uncommon when the view of the face has contradicted that of the figure. Now we learn through the medium of the stage, which nowadays holds up the mirror to fashion, that the new mode is for matrons, and youth ceases to be a virtue in modern styles. A mature sophistication in clothes replaces the youthful ideal, and from the girlish type, so often affected—with disastrous results as to appearance—by matron and young girl alike, the now fashionable figure is sleekly hair-dressed, gowned with an effect of physical and mental maturity, and presents manners that correspond with her sartorial effect. This is the newest presentment by Dame Fashion working largely through the medium of the theater.

In the last two seasons, while fashion was still glorying in straight and youthful simplicity, the theater had gone a large step ahead. The simple ingenue gradually disappeared from the stage and her place was occupied by the extreme opposite. There have come many plays which have centered around the mature woman.

Fashion is following a parallel trail. The new chic is as far removed from the rapid flapper of the recent past as that post-war young lady was from the gentle Victorian whose clothes reflected the prim stiffness of the 1890 stage. It is no longer smart to be merely youthful.

Shoes Will Harmonize With Costume Ensemble

Women's shoes this season are designed for harmony with the costume ensemble. The editor of an eastern fashion magazine told 1,200 visiting shoe dealers, assembled recently at the St. Louis shoe manufacturers' annual show.

It was whispered among the shoe style dictators that the trend is away from the elaborate design, that the strap is passing from the instep and that one strap for the sandal is becoming the rule.

It is not a black year; colors in contrast and harmony predominate with silver brocades. A favorite for evening wear, a small beaded outline of rhinestones on black satin is shown in an opera pump.

A distinct trend toward simplicity and richness is apparent even in sport shoes, which are offered in varying material combinations, while for street wear the subdued tone is more pronounced.

Shoes and sandals are cut low at the sides, often with the d'Orsay effect, an abrupt upturn of the opening at the vamp.

Gleam of Metal Thread Conspicuous in Gowns

This is a season when much significance is attached to the glitter and gleam of metal thread. The most important designers include in their collections models developed in metal tissues of every description, from fragile-looking lace to brocades, woven in intricate designs and with a subtle blending of metal tones indescribably lovely.

Entire frocks are made of metal lace posed over a foundation of velvet or satin, wraps with huge collars of costly furs are of metal lace of the most supple texture. Evening hats are of gold lace veiled with brown tulle, and even blouses of simple tailored line are fashioned of these metallic tissues.

Silver lace and sapphire blue velvet are combined in one of the prettiest frocks of the season. There is straight, scant slip of velvet and this a tunic of silver lace with a gathered bottom.

7 room frame dwelling with bath and two car garage, equipped with electric lights and gas, good location, offered at a bargain if a deal is closed at a bargain; possession given at once.

HARBOR PIRATES
GET $1,000,000 LOOT

New York Boat Owners Protest Over Robberies.

New York.—Pirates have caused a total of maritime losses in New York harbor during the last year which amount to from $750,000 to $1,000,000. This has been shown by a survey of the reports of pirate raids during 1924.

A letter to Mayor Hylan from steamship owners and maritime interests requesting adequate police protection and enforcement of policies to meet the situation brought to public attention the news that the adventurous practice of piracy is flourishing at the very doors of the largest city in the world.

The letter bore the signature of officials of the leading trans-Atlantic and coastwise steamship companies and other maritime firms operating along the New York water front.

The conditions which make possible such a financial loss as estimated were described as "intolerable and need-less" and as "a stigma" on the port of New York, which represents hundreds of millions of dollars of investments.

The pirates work mainly at night. They add to their incomes by rum running as a side line.

During the war they flourished for a time, but the police of New York soon got it under control, and heavy losses of the marine trade were stopped. But recently piracy has become once again a flourishing business, with few apprehensions and fewer convictions.

The modus operandi is a fast motor-boat, with an engine of 50 to 100 horsepower. These boats lie hidden along the shores of the inlets, the East river and the creeks about the harbor, Perth Amboy, Port Reading and Elizabeth and anthracite coaling stations.

At these terminals hard coal to be delivered in and about New York city is unloaded from trains on barges to be delivered to destination.

Several barges attached by towing lines to a tug make their way across the harbor. One man is in charge of each barge. This is easy prey for the harbor pirates.

Coal is not the only commodity stolen by pirates. Coffee, sugar, lumber, wool, copper ingots, sardines, condensed milk, carpets and other im-ported and exported products prove profitable hauls to the river rats.

Cargoes also are stolen while lying alongside the piers; not only cargoes, but the very ropes that hold the boats to their moorings.

THE SAME THING

Sybil—It's no use denying it, Maud. It was too dark for me to see who it was, but I saw some young man kiss you in the garden. I'm ashamed of you.

Maud—I don't see why you should be. I've often seen George kiss you.

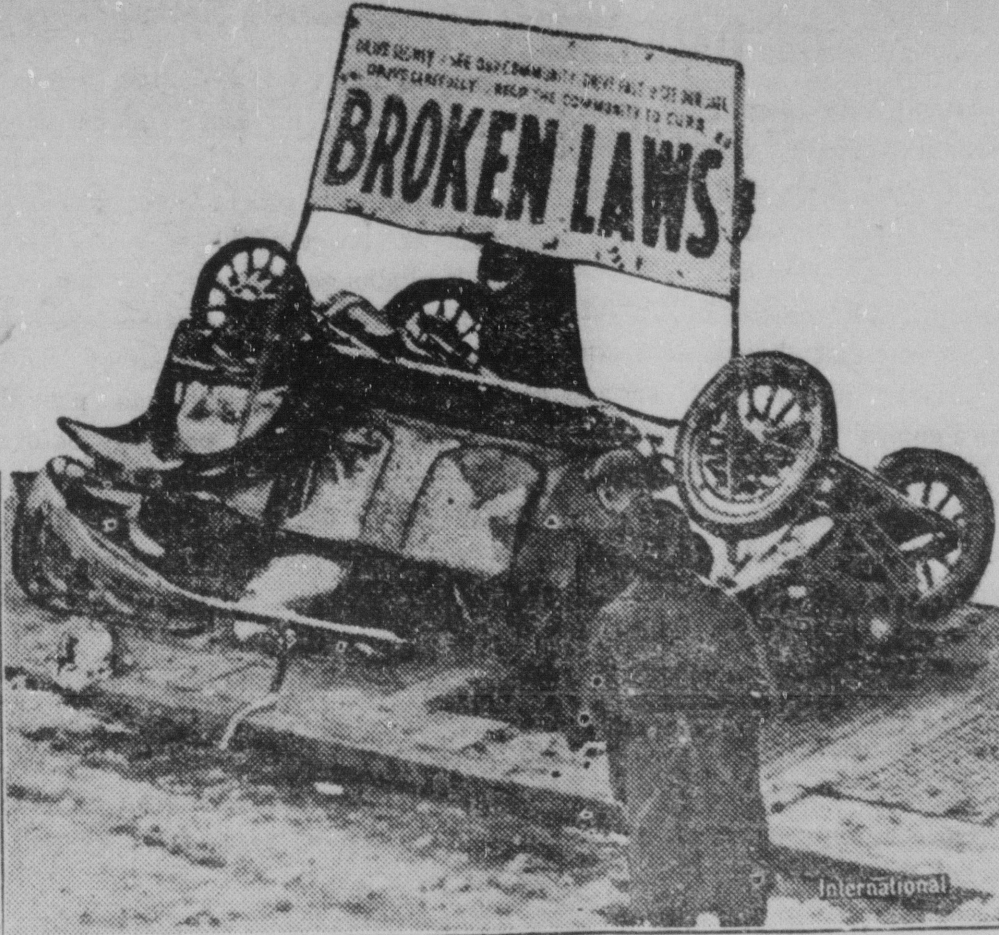

Sybil (engaged to George)—Yes, but I allow nobody but George to kiss me.

Maud—Well, nobody but George ever kissed me.

Modern Ark to Cruise

What is announced as a replica of Noah's ark has been built in the mud-flats near Baltimore, Md. The craft is 50 feet long, 12 feet high and contains six rooms. Allan Risley is the owner and he intends to cruise in this off shaped houseboat.

FOR SAFETY FIRST AND CAREFUL DRIVING

Here's a reminder, by no means gentle, that all Bronxites see when passing through the crowded section at One Hundred and Forty-ninth street and the Square. Yet, although speaking volumes for safety first and careful driving, thousands pass by this spot hourly and pay scant attention to the silent warning.

DO NOT TALK TO DRIVER OF AUTO

There Is Too Much Driving
Being Done From Seats
in Rear of Car.

There is a sign in the front of most city street cars bearing the words, "Don't Talk to the Motorman." That sign with even greater emphasis might well be posted on the front of every windshield.

The driver of an automobile has far more need to devote his attention exclusively to the work in hand, than has the motorman. The latter has a straight one way track ahead of him with two rails to guide him, the motorist has no such aids to safeguard his eye and hand.

Distracts Driver's Attention.

Because passengers are in close contact with the driver there is a definite tendency to distract his attention. The engineer of a locomotive is located where he can give complete attention to the work of operating the train. What the passengers do or say, or think, in no way affects the final results.

Automobile passengers are to blame for much of the trouble drivers get into. On a count of a number of serious accidents it was found that in the majority of cases the drivers were accompanied by passengers. The relatively small number of instances where lone drivers are involved in serious accidents seems to support the theory that there is too much driving being done from the back seat.

Conversation is perhaps the greatest single cause of automobile accidents where passengers are being carried. The driver gets too deep into a subject that interests him, only to sacrifice his attention upon the matter of driving. The less drivers and passengers converse about matters which have no direct bearing upon the facts at hand the better it is for both parties. Some people feel that they must offer a surfeit of conversation in return for a driver's courtesy. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

Timely Warnings.

Where a passenger is capable of giving the driver valuable warnings he should do so by all means, and the driver ought not to resent being warned when necessary. The passenger sees the road from a different angle. His advice may be of considerable value. "There's a car coming to our left," stated in a matter-of-fact way has prevented more accidents than all the exclamations and gasps combined.

But to keep up a continual chatter on the topics of the day is as dangerous as it is unnecessary and frequently leads to a collision or an upset in the ditch.

Tire Hints Given

Don't neglect small cuts. These will often extend farther than you think. Dirt and wet get in, the fabric rots and a blowout follows. Look over your tires from time to time. Don't keep a spare tire out of use too long. Change over occasionally. A tire lasts better in use than exposed to the sun and rain on the running board.

Painting Spare Tires

Where it is desired to paint your old spare tires merely to make them look better, and not to preserve them against deterioration from the action of the elements, a good plan is to paint but one side and the tread of each tire, leaving the inner side just as it was, so that when a spare is to be used the unpainted side can be displayed.

Cleaning Muffler Box

In cleaning the muffler, after the part has been disassembled and the parts cleaned with kerosene, it is well to go over all the holes designed to break up the gas with a sharp punch or fine taper reamer to make sure that these holes have not been reduced in size.

Front Wheel Drive Will Revolutionize Industry

A car that is built for racing, the highest part of the car being 34 inches from the track, but the main feature being a front wheel drive. The front axle contains all the driving gears that the ordinary car has in the rear axle while the rear axle of this car is merely an axle, the transmission, differential and the steering apparatus being in the front axle. The car was designed by Harry Miller for the use of Jimmy Murphy, world famous driver, killed at Syracuse, N. Y. The invention was bought by Cliff Durant, manufacturer of the Durant cars, and it is said that the front wheel drive will revolutionize the automobile industry. Photo shows Cliff Durant at the wheel while Harlen Fenger, race driver, looks on as Lew Cody, movie star, christens the car.

Only Machine of Its Kind.

Creeper Is Convenient
During Severe Weather

A creeper is a very handy thing about the workshop for getting under the car to make a repair or an adjustment. It not only provides a means of getting under the car, but keeps one off the dirty and oily floor, as well as protecting the health during cold and disagreeable weather. It is so simple to construct that no shop or private garage should be without one. It consists of a frame made from two by two ends and one-half by three boards about three feet long. A pillow is provided for a headrest and castor rollers, the latter permitting one to slide under the car with it.

Spark Plug Test

When there is reason to suspect a spark plug of not firing properly it may be tested by removing it from the cylinder without disconnecting the wire terminal and laying the metal part of the plug on the engine. By turning the motor over slowly the electrical circuit will then be completed by the commutator, and, if the spark plug is in working condition, a spark will jump between its points. If not, the probability is that the plug needs cleaning or is short-circuited and useless.

Clean Cloth Upholstery

Cloth upholstery may best be cleaned by beating curtains and backs lightly with a stick or carpet beater, after which the accumulated dust is whisked off with a brush. Grease or oil may be removed by an application of lukewarm water and good soap, applied with a woolen cloth. There are a number of new woolen cleaners which will work very well on cloth upholstery, but gasoline and benzine have a tendency to spread instead of to remove dirt.

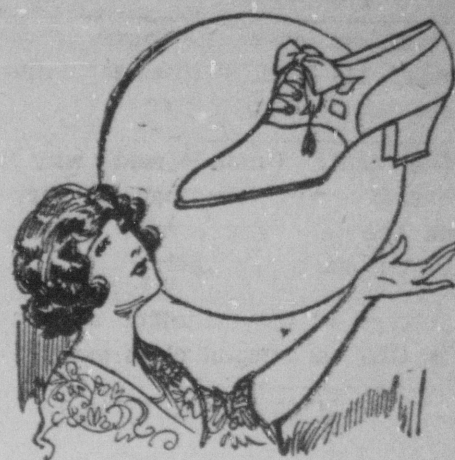

Examination of Casing

A very handy weapon to make easy the examination of the inside of a casing when looking for punctures, fabric breaks, or weak spots is a wedge made of a substantial stick of wood three-quarters of an inch thick and three to five inches long, depending on the size of the tire. This wedge may be slipped between the beads and pulled around the entire circumference of the casing with one hand, leaving the other free to hold the tire.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting, and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Will you let me help you select the memorial for your lot. Call at show room. NO AGENTS.

CROSS-WORD PUZZLE No. 32.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

PASTOR DEFENDS

HIS DAUGHTER

Charged With Immorality and Arranging Dates Between High School Girls and Business Men.

Lorain, O., March 23.—(U. P.)—Lucille Jones' pastor-father defended her against charges of immorality in his Sunday night sermon at the Peoples' Church here.

This was Rev. T. H. Jones' text: "But the tongue can no man tame; it is an unruly evil full of deadly poison."

Rev. Mr. Jones declared liars have a through ticket to hell.

He said the charges against his daughter were a frame-up and that the persons who had brought them and the newspapermen who had reported them were lost souls.

Lucille, 19, is alleged to have arranged "dates" between high school girls and "business men" for wild revels at a lake resort near here.

Authorities say she operated a "vice market" and charged a fee for arranging the "dates."

American Peculiarity

We are queer people, and if a man announces a cure for existing evils we call him a nut.—San Francisco Chronicle.

THE PULLMAN FARE

"The Interstate Commerce Commission has overruled the recommendation of its own examiner that the railways should not be permitted longer to collect the Pullman fare surcharge of 50 per cent. This is a challenge of the opinion of Congress which now has before it a bill declaring the surcharge "unlawful." The Senate has passed that bill, and it is pending before the House committee. It is off the same piece with the Gooding bill depriving the Interstate Commission of discretion in administering the long and short haul clause. If the railways lose on the issues raised by these two bills, it will be the beginning of the end of regulation of rates by the rule of reason and the substitution of rates fixed by politicians.

"Lowering of the Pullman fares would certainly be popular among those who dislike to pay them. But patrons of the Pullman cars are only one in twenty of those who pay passenger fares. The Interstate Commission thinks that if the railways are to reduce any fares it would be better that they should lower those of the great majority. The surcharge burdens only those who have the option not to take the service. The argument that the reduction of the surcharge would promote travel has been disproved by its actual increase since the higher rate was imposed. The railways need the money which they have been ordered to pay out in wage increases. The Pullman Company is doing well without it. But the important thing is the preservation of the right of regulation by the Interstate Commission and not by votes in or out of Congress."—New York Times.

The foregoing editorial shows clearly the issue as between regulation by judicial reasoning and regulation by passing political fancy. A sound government of law and order cannot survive under the latter brand of regulation.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

The Jackson W. C. T. U. was entertained by Mrs. Earl Rader assisted by Mrs. Henry Rader on March 11. The meeting was in charge of President Mrs. Ida Rader. America, was the opening song followed by the Lord's prayer repeated in unison and the scripture lesson, Psalm 105. The president read the plan of work on Social Morality. Mrs. Sue Hoover read "The Widow's Mite," and Mrs. Henry Rader read, "Why a Twentieth Century Christian Must Stand for Total Abstinence." The meeting adjourned with the W. C. T. U. benediction. After the program delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The April meeting place will be announced later.

Friends and relatives to the number of thirty gathered at the home of Norman Pontious last Sunday in honor of his birthday anniversary and tendered him a complete surprise. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Pontious and Mrs. Rosanna Creschbaum, of near Nash; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Mace and children, Ruth and Donald of near Mt. Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Miller and son, Wayne, all of Stoutsville; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Musselman and son, Marvin, and Mrs. Eva Musselman, of near Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Will Pontious and children, Ruth and Mildred and Eva May, Margaret and Junior of St. Paul; Mr. and Mrs. John Groce and son, John, of near Ringgold, and Mr. George Holdren, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Pontious and children, Harold James and Mary Ellen. All departed at a late hour wishing Mr. Pontious many more happy birthday anniversaries.

Amethyst as Emblem

The amethyst is an emblem of humility and sobriety. It is dedicated to February and Venus. In the Zodiac it stands for Sagittarius, in metallurgy for copper, in Christian art it is given to St. Matthew, and in the Roman Catholic church it is set in the pastoral ring of bishops, whence it is called the "prelate's gem."

GENERAL MOTORS

CORPORATION

Report Shows Large Increase In Business.

Detroit, Mich., March 23.—(U. P.)—Figures released today show the total net sales of the General Motors corporation during 1924 amounted to $568,006,459, a decided drop from the 1923 sales. Of this amount $45,330,988 represented net earnings, a drop of $16,650,000. The statement was signed by Alfred F. Sloan Jr., and Pierre S. Dupont, chairman of the board of directors.

The earned income on each share of common stock amounted to $7.37.

One of the brightest features of the report was the net gain in value of exports, which increased from 45,000 units valued at $39,200,000 in 1923 to 64,000 units worth $50,-

AMUSEMENTS

Bebe Daniels comes to the Met theater tonight as the star of the Paramount picture, "Miss Bluebeard," directed by Frank Tuttle—a picturization of the Broadway stage play, "Little Miss Bluebeard" by Aver Hopwood.

The screen play by Townsend Martin deals with a series of matrimonial adventures and gives Miss Daniels a fine opportunity to display her talents as a comedienne.

Bebe's role in the picture is one of a French actress. She goes to London on a holiday and, thru a series of most amusing incidents enroute, she arrives there the wife of two men.

This piquant situation and the complications that follow are said to provide the volatile Bebe with an excellent opportunity for her comedy talents. The fun, while at all times clean and wholesome, is declared to be practically continuous. The stage play made from the same story in which Irene Bordoni starred, scored a big success both on Broadway and on the road, auguring well for the picture.

Playing in support of Bebe in "Miss Bluebeard" are Raymond Griffith, one of the screen's foremost character comedians; Robert Frazer, leading man; Kenneth MacKenna and others.

Counting the Stars

Stout, Charles Miller, Harry and Fred Griner, of Circleville, Ohio, and many other shooters from other cities.

John R. Taylor took charge of the office besides breaking all of his twenty-five targets in the supper event.

When the shoot was over and the smoke cleared away the scores showed that W. I. Spangler, of Tarlton, with four down in his ninety was the highest—score, eighty-six. M. M. Foote of Columbus, second—score, eighty-five, J. C. Rader of Circleville, third, score eighty-four.

Next followed the supper at the Community hall given by the ladies of Tarlton and surrounding vicinity.

This consisted of chicken, gravy, noodles, mashed potatoes, peas, salads and jellies, with ice cream and cake as desert.

This was most highly complimented by all the visiting shooters and others who were with us and proceeds were $90. In all more than $100 were added to the community fund for improvements and many thanks are due to the ladies who so kindly donated and prepared this splendid feast and to the shooters and all others who patronized us and helped to make it such a success.

Especial appreciation is due the president, W. I. Spangler, who conceived the idea of this plan to help the community. It created an unusual interest and already he is planning to organize a Gun club of local members. He is the manufacturer of the traps used at the shoots all over the country.

The evening was spent in music and dancing by the young folks and a general good time by all.

Again we thank all who patronized, donated, or helped in any way and hope this splendid cooperation will always exist and that many others will yet join us.

Prayers Before Acting

Before the rising of the curtain on each act of the Chauve-Souris company at the Strand theater, London, every member of the cast crosses himself or herself four times in accordance with the ritual of the Greek church.

ALARMISTS INTRODUCE RESOLUTION.

For Legislature to Investigate Bolshevistic Teaching in State Colleges

Columbus, March 25 (UP).—Demands for a sweeping investigation of Bolshevism in Ohio universities were prepared for presentation to the state legislature today.

The senate rules committee is considering the advisability of bringing the resolution onto the floors of the two houses.

As drawn originally the resolution does not mention names. It cites the name of organizations within the state colleges and universities, however and provides for a joint legislative probe.

The schools under fire are Ohio State university and Miami university. The resolution provides for expulsion of instructors or professors in any state institutions who have public connections with Socialistic, Atheistic, Communist or Revolutionary organizations.

The resolution charges the Ohio State university chapel was used for the forming of a Socialistic circle.

If the resolution is adopted a committee of three senators and three representatives will conduct the probe. They will report their findings and recommendations to the legislature.

KEEPING WELL

SIMPLE LIFE IS LONG LIFE

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

WOULD you like to live to be a hundred and six? Then mind your own business. That's Grandma Stevens' advice.

Grandma Stevens, otherwise Mrs. Catherine Sophia Stevens of Minneola, S. D., celebrated her one hundred and sixth birthday the other day. Now we can talk all we like about the increased length of life as shown by census tables and mortality reports and how the average length of life has increased fifteen years in the last half century. But that doesn't change the fact that very few among the children of men have the privilege of celebrating so many birthdays and when one does happen, it is an event in any community.

Why do some persons live to an age far beyond that of most of us? We say it is due to their "greater vitality." Ah, yes! But just what is this desirable quality and how does one get it?

Nobody knows, but every one would like to. So when any fortunate person lives far beyond the usual span, they are always asked how it happens. They don't know any more than the giant oak knows why it towers above its fellows, but they are always asked.

So Grandma Stevens, on her one hundred and sixth birthday, was asked the same question and her answer is worth hearing. She said: "Mind your own business and keep busy."

Now "there is more in this than doth appear." If we mind our own business, one of the first things we will learn is that a sound, healthy, smooth-running bodily machinery is necessary to successful management of our business, whatever it is, and that a simple, regular, even life causes the least wear and tear on the body. Talk to any person who has lived to an unusually great age and you will find that early in life they adopted a simple, regular plan of living and followed it.

Chauncey Depew, well over ninety, says that early in life he decided that he "couldn't eat long and live long." Few great eaters live past middle life. Length of years is the reward of simplicity and moderation. That's an important part of your business, if you are only wise enough to mind it.

BASE BALL SEASON

Will Be Opened In South-Central Ohio League On Sunday May 3.

Sunday, May 3, will mark the opening of the base ball season in the South-Central Base Ball League. This was the date set for the opening at a meeting of the league held at Washington C. H. Sunday.

Forfeits were posted by Washington C. H., London, Wilmington and Circleville, making the League a four-team organization with a possibility of other teams joining within the next few days. Xenia is said to be seeking a berth in the South-Central, as well as some other teams and it is hoped that at least six clubs will be represented on the opening day.

The matter of rules and regulations governing the league was the chief topic of discussion at the Washington meeting and was pretty definitely settled.

It is the plan to play a split season, with nine games in each season. Wilmington and Washington C. H. will probably be matched for the opening game either at Washington or Wilmington and Circleville and London at either London or Circleville. All four teams have splendid possibilities in the way of players and a close rivalry is certain.

Deane F. Richmond, London attorney, is president and R. B. Howard, London newspaper publisher, is secretary of the league.

No Way to Treat a Lady

George Elliott, forty-one-year-old laborer, according to the divorce bill of Mrs. Flossie Elliott, filed in Superior court, became enraged at her on one occasion and kicked the windshield out of their automobile. Other allegations of cruelty are made.—From a news item in the Seattle Times.

Loving Couples

Whilst eight larks were being driven along the busiest thoroughfare of Dolgelly, England, they made for the open door of the offices of the superintendent registrar of marriages, entered in couples, and were only ejected with difficulty. Eventually they came out again in couples.

Eagles Have Long Life

The biological survey says that some species of eagles have been known to live a hundred years. From records kept by the zoological societies of London it is shown that specimens in captivity lived to be forty-two, forty-six and fifty-five years of age.

Lemon Tree Peculiar

One of the chief peculiarities of the lemon tree is that it carries both flower and fruit in all stages of development most of the year. The lemons are picked green and ripened in the dark. If picked when ripe they will not keep for any length of time.

HARTMAN THEATER

Sam H. Harris will present Irving Berlin's third annual Music Box Revue at the Hartman theater, Columbus, Monday night, March 23, for a week's engagement with Wednesday and Saturday matinees. The Music Box Revue has proved its worth these three years and is an established institution and a marked favorite with theater goers. All last year the new revue was presented to crowded houses at the Music Box theater in New York and, of course, the elaborate production with its intricate under stage and over-stage effects and its exquisitely beautiful scenery and costumes, will be shown here just as it was in New York. Beautiful as it is to the eye, it is also true that in the way of fun music and girls nothing in theatrical presentation compares with the Music Box Revue. In New York the third annual revue with the music and lyrics by Irving Berlin and staged by Hassard Short was considered far and away the best of the three, and the cast the finest ever assembled in a revue. Here are some of the principals in the company of one hundred: Florence Moore, John Steel, Joseph Santley, Ivy Sawyer, Johnny Burle, Solly Ward, Florence O'Donnishawn, Hugh Cameron, Phil Baker, Ruth Thomas, Nelson Snow, Charles Columbus Dorothy Dilley and three Wainwright sisters, Ipena, Vista, Eric Titus and Helen Rich. There will be a special augmented orchestra for the local engagement of the Music Box Revue. Mail orders now.

$25 in Aer-O-Plane bonds admits you to the movie picture, "Lilies of the Field" Tuesday, March 31, and Wednesday, April 1.

We consider it a joyful obligation to supply you with just the cut or quality meat you want.

CAUSE FOR ACTION

By GRACE CANFIELD

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

SARAH was putting away the old percolator when the doorbell rang. In Briggsville one drank coffee only twice a day, except on special occasions. To have it oftener than this, and especially to have it between meals, betokened a nervous and uncertain mind.

Frowning heavily, Sarah brushed aside a straight wisp of hair with her sleeve, and standing on tiptoe, poked at the standard of the percolator till it was level with the edge of the top shelf. Then she went to the door.

Mrs. Carr stood on the step and smiled, and Sarah prepared herself for a shock. What was the woman going to say this time?

"I just came," said the caller sweetly, "to ask you about that reception to-morrow night. Of course you're going?"

"Why—I aimed to." It seemed a safe reply, although this was Sarah's first knowledge of a reception.

Mrs. Carr's smile was slightly acid now and mildly triumphant. "Of course," she said softly, "it is an evening-dress affair—the governor coming, and all." Her eyes rested, ever so lightly, on Sarah's blue-checked apron, with its tiny coffee spot. "You really ought not to drink too much coffee, Miss Stone," purred Mrs. Carr. "It can't be good for you." And having completely demolished the enemy, she departed.

Sarah ground her teeth with rage. "How did she guess about the coffee?" she wondered indignantly. It was the last straw. Something must be done about that woman. Meanwhile there was the reception. The governor was coming to Briggsville—about the soldiers' monument, of course. She had never dreamed of attending the big public reception planned for him, but now she must, come what may.

But her courage failed a little upon her considering her scanty wardrobe. Not an evening dress in the lot, and the elite of Briggsville could not be deceived by the hasty remodeling of a well-known afternoon frock—Mrs. Carr especially. So Sarah Stone betook herself to the largest store in town, and purchased an evening gown.

But, alas! The dress was only the beginning. Shoes and stockings must also be purchased; ornaments for her neck and wrists—and still Sarah, before her glass, was unsatisfied. Again and again she combed her stubborn hair. There was no help for it. She must put it upon curlers.

In the first place, she didn't know how the thing was done. In the second place, they were so tight that it hurt her to smile. Nevertheless, on they went.

Sarah spent a thoroughly uncomfortable night, and her eagerness to rise the next morning was caused fully as much from uneasiness as from anxiety to view results. Pith sensations disappeared at her first glance in the mirror. Her whole head was a mass of gray-brown kinks, curled so tightly that combing brought tears. With a sigh Sarah drew on a boudoir cap (which she despised) and went about her work.

Fortunately no one called that morning except the butcher, and Sarah was quite equal to facing down his curious glances. But when, at noontime, she discovered that her hair still resisted all brushing and combing, she became desperate. Water would reduce it to its former limpness and destroy her cherished victory over the "catty Mrs. Carr." And yet—

The telephone called her hastily downstairs. It was Mrs. Fiske, a neighbor, and her first words sounded like a knell in Sarah's ears.

"Isn't it a shame that the governor can't come? They are to give up the reception. I'm coming right over to tell you about it."

Sarah sprang to her feet as the telephone clicked. What should she do? How could she explain those dreadful curls to Mrs. Fiske?

"What's the use?" she sighed. "I'll confess and give her a chance to laugh. Maybe a cup of coffee will give me courage."

She was reaching to the top shelf for the percolator when she heard Mrs. Fiske at the door. Surprised in the midst of her coffee brewing yesterday, she had put the pot hastily away, half full, and had forgotten it in the excitement. (Mrs. Fiske, it may be remarked, was also a coffee "addict.") Now, as she reached for it, the slender standard tipped a little and a stream of cold coffee poured down directly on Sarah's painful curls.

"I wonder," cried Sarah, "even in the midst of her consternation, 'if this will do it!' Then the glass top of the percolator and several aluminum sections, following the stream of coffee, rendered her for a few moments past any thought at all.

"Why, Miss Stone!" cried Mrs. Fiske. "Whatever has happened?"

Sarah struggled to her feet and sidled over to the mirror. Every curl was gone! Her hair hung in the good old straight lines. She beamed on her caller.

"Nothing at all," she assured her. "But tell me about the governor."

"He was ill," explained her friend. "We were awfully disappointed. But I don't suppose you even thought of going to the reception."

Sarah mopped the coffee from her head with a damp cloth. "I go to one of those evening affairs!" she laughed. "I should say not!"

Eccentric English Duke

The duke of Bedford's gold plate at Woburn abbey is among the most magnificent collections of its kind in the world. So lightly, however, was it regarded by the eighth duke, that on his death in 1872 gold plate worth tens of thousands of dollars was found strewn about the floor of his house in Belgrave square in such a deplorable condition that it narrowly escaped being consigned to the dustbin as worthless metal.

Peas Should Be in All Gardens

Several Other Standard Vegetables Are Entitled to Good Attention.

Peas ought to be in every garden the whole season through. Alaska for the earliest, Fillbasket to follow Alaska, and possibly Gradus or Nott's Excelsior will more than supply you with early varieties. Main crop varieties to furnish you peas to can for winter include Dwarf Champion, which is far and away the best variety for the small garden.

The biggest and best sweet pepper is considered to be the Chinese Giant. Ruby King is another well known mango pepper but usually not as good as the Chinese Giant. Then among the hot peppers there is Red Cayenne, and a little of this pepper will go a long way.

Among the pumpkins one of my favorites is the Cushaw, says a writer in the Successful Farming. Some classify it among the squash, for it has the shape of a squash in some measure, but it makes a pie like pumpkin. Sugar, and Buff Pie or Quaker Pie are first-class pumpkins, and, by the way, it is a mistake not to have pumpkins to put away for winter, so plant enough.

Table Queen Squash.
There is a new squash, commonly termed Table Queen, which ought to be in every garden. It is a small individual size, fine baker and a good keeper. Plant these and one larger late variety and you can even get along without sweet potatoes if you find them hard to grow.

The early squash comes along at a time when your appetite is just set for them. The White Bush Scallop and the Summer Bush Crookneck varieties are standards.

Radishes are usually about the first things out in a garden, or at least radishes generally make the first returns. Besides the early ones such as Early Bird, Scarlet Turnip, and all those, have a few summer radishes such as Icicle or Chartier, and try just a few of those winter radishes, such as Chinese Rose Winter, one of the best, or Celestial, or Scarlet China.

With tomatoes for the home garden you will make no mistake with Earliana, Chalk's Jewel, New Stone, and Ponderosa.

Turnips in Abundance.
Turnips in abundance will be had from one or two ounces of early seed, or if you eat as few as some of us, a packet or so of early seed. White Milan, Early Snowball are good early varieties. Late varieties, of which you should plant in order to store plenty for winter, include White Egg, or the old standby, Purple-top Strap Leaf.

In addition to these standard vegetables you are going to lose half the fun and good of your garden if you fail to raise some of the special crops such as salsify, endive, zohl-rabi, okra, parsley, kale and the many other odds and ends that after all make a variety of foods that not only please the appetite but return dividends to health.

Oiled Paper Wrappers to Control Apple Scald

The use of oiled paper wrappers, developed recently by the bureau of plant industry, United States Department of Agriculture, to control scald in boxed apples, has now become common among apple growers. These wrappers have not controlled apple scald completely, but they have caused such a marked reduction in this trouble that the trade recognizes them as an essential part of the industry.

Another method of using oiled paper developed by the department is in the shredded form for the prevention of scald in barreled apples. Paper in this form was tried out for some time experimentally and last year a number of commercial growers in the East used it to a small extent. It has been found that 1½ pounds of the shredded oiled paper, well distributed through the barrel, produces fairly satisfactory results.

Believe Legumes Enrich Soil by Using Nitrogen

The clovers, alfalfa, beans, peas, in fact all the legumes, are believed to enrich the soil by taking part of their nitrogen from the air and leaving large stores of this element of plant growth in the soil for following crops.

This is true if the legume be inoculated with a bacteria which forms nodules on the roots of the plant as they gather nitrogen from the air.

The species of bacteria generally differ for the different legumes. This makes it necessary usually to inoculate the seed or soil for a legume the first time it is grown in a field. There are a few exceptions to this rule, such as alfalfa after sweet clover.

Jolting Bee Hives Will Likely Break the Combs

In moving bees move them in a wagon with springs or an auto truck, every precaution being taken not to jolt them. Jolting the hives is likely to break the combs, which would ruin the hive at this season, according to E. S. Prevost, extension bee specialist.

Be very careful and not disturb the bees any more than possible. It is dangerous for the bees to be disturbed to great activity while the weather is cold.

In buying bees, be absolutely sure that the bees have no disease. Each shipment should bear a certificate stating that they have been inspected within 60 days and found free of diseases.

The Real Value of the Car Depends Much On Where You Buy It

Regardless of price, model or make, the real value of an automobile is measured by your satisfaction in the ownership of it, and the ability of the local dealer to accept responsibility for your satisfaction is a definite and important part of what you get for the price you pay for the car.

Weather and Health

Doctors are realizing more and more that changes of weather cause changes in the human body. They say that sunshine and rain, cold and heat, are important factors in our health. The study of the relations between health and weather has become a new science, which is called "climatology."

ALL WORLD A STAGE FOR "FADS OF 1925"

First Act Laid in Out-of-Way Places.

Washington.—Yen Fu Chien of Foochow is puzzled about Americans. He has never been to America but he has decided that Americans must be astonishingly changeable.

Yen Fu Chien left a job ornamenting fans to paint polished bone and bamboo chips for mah-jongg sets. He couldn't paint them fast enough for the Americans. Then, all of a sudden, America did not want so many mah-jongg sets. Yen Fu Chien lost his job.

He could not know the fad of crossword puzzles had cut into the fad of mah-jongg in America. And he did not worry much. The changeable Americans developed a taste for Chinese parasols. These also needed ornamentation, and since Yen Fu Chien was a decorator he ate again.

Hair-Net Trade Menaced.

Yen Fu's sister was not so fortunate. Just about the time her tresses were long enough to market the bottom dropped out of the hair-net trade because bobbed hair was "all the go" 5,000 miles from Foochow. She had to accept a low price. Her hair is now being used to tie the lacquer paper covering the bamboo ribs of the parasols her brother decorates.

"All the world's a stage for the 'Fad of 1925' or any year," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters at Washington. "Their first acts are usually laid in strange out-of-the-way places; Arctic islands, tropic jungles, deserts; the second on Broadway or Michigan avenue. The denouement in the third act may occur in a high-ceiling room where grave diplomats draft a treaty—or may be 'same as Act I'."

"The opening curtain of 'Platinum,' a Twentieth century comedy based on Charles Lamb's famous roast pig story, rises on a street scene in Quito, Colombia. As a prologue it is necessary to point out that the mothers of most of us were as proud as peacocks of their engagement diamond in its gold setting. The 1925 'flapper' would probably stay single all her life before she would wear anything but platinum filigree.

A Premium on Platinum.

"The demand for platinum jewelry has helped to shoot that metal to well over $100 an ounce and, with the Russian field cut off, Colombia is the principal producer. Washing for gold is an ancient industry for Quito natives but they long regarded it as a nuisance the heavy lumps they had to separate from the gold. The lumps were platinum. When they realized that platinum was worth four times as much as gold they began frantically to pan the creeks which are the town's streets for the discarded nuggets. The government laid claim to the streets, so they panned their gardens and dooryards. Finally one patriot burned his house down. Panning the ruins he obtained enough platinum to build a new house and still have $4,000 in the bank, thus coming off much better than Lamb's Chinaman.

"With all the enthusiasm of Kansas farmers in a good wheat year natives of Cape Colony, South Africa, are hailing an obscure American news item. It is an announcement from Detroit, Mich., that a great percentage of automobiles now sold are closed cars.

"In the last part of the Nineteenth and the first part of our century royalty in Europe took to ostrich feathers. By 1910 the 'willow plume' was one of the dearest possessions of American womanhood. South Africa had discovered that ostriches were its special vocation and nearly a million birds stalked its pens. An attempt was made even to start ostrich farms in California. With the war the bottom dropped out and tens of thousands of ostriches had to be slaughtered to save them from starving. South Africa says that the arrival of the open automobile spelled downfall for the ostrich feather as a hat ornament—but the closed car is their rainbow of hope for the revival of the trade that brought them $15,000,000 in one year.

Birthplace of Fads.

"China is the chief hunting ground for civilization's 'enthusiasms.' It has given by turns everything from willow ware to Pekinese pups. Sandwiched between these extremes are the early yellow karakul lambskins, rugs, bonbon baskets, fans, Spanish shawls, tulip bulbs, lanterns and goldfish. The tiny Pekinese, which Chinese legends say are descendants of a marriage of the marmoset and lion, once were owned by Chinese monarchs alone. When the Peking royal palace was captured in 1860 five Pekinese were found and taken to Europe, thus introducing the glossy lap dog to the West.

"Fads probably rise more rapidly and die more quickly in American today than in any other country in any other age. To fads civilization owes much, for they, rather than necessities, often have been the first springs of international trade. Mediterranean people blazed their first trade routes to north Europe for amber, the ancient's most precious substance. Lapis lazuli, with which King Tutankhamen's tomb was richly ornamented, was to old Egypt what diamonds are to the Twentieth century. Egypt traded her emeralds for Persia's lapis lazuli.

"The United States serves other countries with fads just as they supply us."
